

Latest French Models in Broadcloth for Evening Coats

BROADCLOTH EVENING COAT

The sketch shows one of the latest French models in evening wraps, the lines of the cape and pointed coat fronts being especially graceful. The model was in light apricot-colored satin-finish broadcloth, trimmed with broadcloth buttons embroidered with gold thread, gilt tassels and strips of Oriental embroidery in shades of orange, pale yellow, and gold.

FOODS THAT DECREASE WEIGHT AND THOSE THAT MAKE FLESH

At this season of the year, when fresh vegetables have been long in market, many women find to their dismay that their weight is increased. This is partly due to the unfortunate fact that many of the things they enjoy eating are flesh producers.

Heading the list of flesh producing "don'ts" is corn. It is very fattening. Next to that are potatoes in any form, and rice and hominy must also be tabooed. Beans are fattening, except the string variety, and of course any floury foods, such as white bread, macaroni and spaghetti, are not to be taken at any season.

With these foodstuffs eliminated many are left to be enjoyed. All vegetables that one might call "watery" may be eaten with safety. This includes spinach, beets, squash, cucumbers, tomatoes, lettuce and onions. One unfortunate who reluctantly went on the "thinning" diet said she had everything except those vegetables that "went to make packing," and when you think of it this is rather expressive.

At the same time if there has been any trouble with the digestion the "watery" things are excellent, as they are more easily assimilated. Starchy or sugary ones may ferment, and by causing flatulence increase the weight and lines of the figure materially.

It is naturally understood that any sweet deserts are to be given up, and watery fruits, except canteloupe, should be substituted. Peaches and pears, however, are fattening, but large quantities of grapes may be taken without danger of increasing the avoirdupois.

Taking too much food at a time is one of the great causes of gaining flesh, just as an improper way of sitting is a reason for enlarging hips. A chair of sitting so the tip of the spine supports the weight of the body, women have a way of thrusting themselves into a chair with the end of the spine curved, sitting four or five inches above the tip, as it were.

This throws the hips and abdomen out of place, and ungainliness is the result. Add to this more food at each meal than is required for nourishment and a bad figure is assured.

Unless a woman is working hard through the morning a cup of coffee (without cream, if she is trying to banish) two soft-boiled eggs, and a bit of very thin toast well dried are all she should have. During the morning she should take a piece of graham or gluten bread with the smallest bit of butter. Lunch or dinner may consist of a small bit of lean meat, such as beef, lamb, or mutton. In the middle of the afternoon a cup of thin soup is good, and supper should consist of more soup, a small bit of meat, and at most, two vegetables. One is enough if fruit is to be eaten.

Water in large quantities should be drunk, but never with meals. It is fattening then, but if drunk separately after a meal, and a drink half an hour after a meal, and none later than half an hour before, to drink a glassful as soon as rising is excellent.

Broad Shoulder Effect

The originator of the broad shoulder design was a French modiste who discovered that the broad effect which tapered at the waist was becoming to most women, especially the small woman and the one with a "square" back, that shape so horribly unattractive, and so often seen. The wide shoulder effect can be produced through the medium of shoulder caps, plaits, epaulets, and wide braid trimming. Paris and New York favor the style this season and it is quickly growing in favor throughout the country. Presently in the tulle, gowns, the broad shoulder effect will be developed in which the hands are tucked into the folds of the dress skirt, ending in points either plain or medallion shaped and old little buttons containing both tones will be seen as a trimming.

Good Thick Gingerbread

Take one and a quarter pounds of flour, a quart of a pound of butter, one pound of molasses, one ounce of ground ginger, two ounces of castor sugar, one teaspoonful of carbonate of soda dissolved in a little warm milk. Rub the butter into the flour, add the sugar, ginger and molasses, and last of all, the soda in the milk. Mix into rather a stiff paste. Bake in Yorkshire pudding tins, lined with buttered paper, for half an hour to forty minutes.

Day Dreams

There is no girl so prosaic that she does not indulge in an occasional day dream. Some girls waste far too much time in rose-colored clouds of imagination.

Day dreams are all well enough in their way; they live us out of the commonplace, but to dwell continually in their rosy mists is bad for us.

This is a practical world, and if we want to succeed we must keep our eyes open and make the best of such opportunities as come our way. We must "do noble things," not dream them all day long. What is the use of spending hours thinking how fine and noble you would like to be if you don't put your thoughts to some practical use? An hour's "doing" is worth more than a week's "thinking."

It is a fine thing to have high ambitions, but don't get them so high that you can't see the every-day duties that await you. Many a girl spends hours dreaming of the happy home she will queen it over at some future date. But she does nothing to fit herself to rule over her kingdom when she comes into it. She forgets that instead of dreaming, she ought to be working hard and gaining all the useful knowledge she can. And she must not forget that the most important thing of all is that she should be good, and true, and sweet.

WOMAN'S INQUIRY COLUMN.

RUSH QUERIES Will Be Answered By Telephone.

Call Main, 5260 and Ask for the Times Bureau of Information

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column:

Would you kindly tell me how to use the henna stain. My hair is brown and would like it to have a reddish tint, also how to use quince seed to make this hair curl.

Henna may be applied in several ways, the easiest being the tea made of the leaves. One ounce to a quart of water and boil the whole down to a pint. The stain should be applied with a small brush so as to spread it evenly over the hair. It must be renewed at least once in six weeks. Dry the hair in the sun as this helps in the tinting process. Quince seeds..... 1/2 ounce Water, hot..... 1/2 pint Cologne water..... 1/2 ounce Oil of cloves..... 5 drops Oil of lavender..... 5 drops Soak the seeds in the water for several hours; strain and add to the resulting muddle the cologne with which the perfumed oils have previously been mingled.

Night School for Music.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Will you please tell me through The Times column, if there is a free or private night school of music for a boy about fifteen years old and where and what it is?

If you will send me a stamped envelope for reply I shall be pleased to give you the address of a school which I think you will find will fill all the requirements.

Games for Birthday Party.

Editor of the Woman's Inquiry Column: Please let me know through your column a few games and how to play them at a birthday party of girls and boys from the ages of seven to nineteen years. Thanking you in advance. R. E. A.

One of the most enjoyable games is the one called Memory. Have in several rooms large tables with different objects of general use. Let all the guests form in a line and march through the rooms and then finally stop in a room in which there is a table around which they are seated. Then they are given a pencil and paper and are told to write down the objects that they remember having seen in the different rooms, the one correctly naming the largest number of articles getting the prize.

Another game well known is the Spider Web. In the center of a room is a wheel from which many strands of cord run passing and re-passing each other. The guest untangling the largest number of skeins gets the prize at the end of each skein is a small prize.

Sale of Canceled Postage.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Will you please tell me where the canceled postage stamps are sold? Last year I saw an article in your paper of how much money had been received by some charitable work in the city for collecting and sending away canceled stamps. I know a young man who has practically been an invalid for five years. His parents have exhausted every means of support and he tries every way to help a little. I thought in this way he could do quite a little for himself. He is two hundred miles from here, so will not interfere with the work here.

HELPING HAND.

These stamps are most likely purchased by the large paper-mache manufacturing mills in New York and France. The exact address of these mills I do not know, but perhaps some of my readers may. Should I receive a communication about this matter I will be pleased to publish it.

Address of Playwright.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: I would like to know where Harry Clay Blaney, the play writer, lives. I know he lives in New York, but would like the address. A. C.

If you will write to the Theatrical Bureau, 140 Broadway, New York, you will be able to obtain the information you wish.

Age of Grace Myers.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Kindly answer through your paper the following questions: How old is Grace Orr Myers, who recently played with the Aborn Opera Company at the National? Will she appear in Washington this season? What is her present address? What is her home address? EMELE.

Grace Myers is about twenty-six years old. Her plans for the season have not yet taken a definite form. A letter addressed to her, care of Milton and Sergeant Aborn, 141 Broadway, New York city, will reach her.

Positions With Railways.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: I am a stenographer and typewriter and I would like to get a position with the Southern railway. Would you kindly inform me what kind of work they have there; what influence, if any, is required; how you can get in; what prices they pay, and what the hours are? STENOGRAPHER.

The work would depend entirely upon the branch to which you were assigned. There are several departments in which women are employed. Men stenographers are employed in all the departments. No scale of prices has ever been published, but you would probably receive a compensation according to the quality of your work. A vacancy in a department or an increase in the work would create a position for you should you properly qualify. The hours are from 8:30 until 5 o'clock, with an half hour for luncheon at 12 o'clock.

Recipe for Sea Foam Candy.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Will you please publish in The Times the recipe for making sea foam candy and oblige. R. H. E.

There are several recipes used, but I think you will find this the most desirable: One pound of loaf sugar. One cup of thick cream. One cup of chopped (very fine) nuts. Boil the sugar and the cream to a soft ball. Then take off the fire and whip with an eggbeater until soft and fluffy like down; stir in the nuts and cut in irregular shapes, place on paraffin paper and allow to cool before handling.

Photograph of Basketball Team.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Kindly inform me where the Y. M. C. A. basketball team had their photographs taken last year. I saw one of them in April, but did not notice the photographer's name. You will oblige me greatly by publishing this for me in your next issue. A. W.

I must refer you to the secretary of the basketball team at the Y. M. C. A. building, as the photograph was loaned to us and has been returned since.

Location of Pratt Institute.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Kindly tell me where Pratt's College, or Pratt Institute, is located, and what are the instructors. COLLEGE MAN.

The Pratt Institute is located in Brooklyn, N. Y. The president is Charles M. Pratt, A. M. They have about 125 instructors. If you write to him you will be able to obtain all the desired information.

Awarding of Prize House and Lot.

Editor Woman's Inquiry Column: Will you please inform me through the columns of your paper whether the house and lot that was to be given away by the Masonic Fair has been awarded, and if so, to whom. A SUBSCRIBER.

The drawing for the house will not take place until the 15th of October. At that time The Times will print the name of the successful winner.

Mr. Man Likes the Little Feet

Men like little feet. But as all feet cannot be little, they also admire well-shaped feet, and all feet can be well shaped.

A pretty foot is a well-dressed foot; and it is easy to dress a foot well. A well-dressed foot, a foot that a man admires, is encased in a shiny boot with a short vamp. A long vamp makes a foot look flat and ugly; the little vamp gives a foot that is round, neat, pretty, dainty appearance which a man always admires.

Then there is something about a light colored boot that appeals to a man's sense of romance. It makes a woman more ethereal than the prosaic black shoe.

Handkerchief Case

A charming sachet is white linen, lined with silk of an exquisite shade of pink. The border scallops are executed in white cotton and the surface shows a graceful design of vines interspersed with violet work. The edges are closed with pink ribbon.

Paris Patterns
